

Student Learning Through Ohio School Libraries Order Form

Tools and Resources CD

This project conducted by Dr. Ross Todd and Dr. Carol Kuhlthau of Rutgers University utilized a student survey mechanism to obtain empirical evidence to support how school libraries help students learn. The Tools and Resources CD contains valuable instruments for school librarians to track and chart the effectiveness of local library programs. More information about the study can be found at www.oelma.org, by clicking on Student Learning Through Ohio Libraries Study. The following is available on the CD:

- ✓ Introduction by Dr. Ross Todd
- ✓ Copies of the faculty and student surveys
- ✓ Explanation of how to conduct the survey in your school library
- ✓ Simple procedures for entering data
- ✓ Research methodologies
- ✓ Copy of the Student Learning through Ohio School Libraries Project Summary
